Tribute to those who lie in Davy Jones' locker, was tenderly paid through the time honored custom of strewing the waters of the Little Miami with flowers at the Trebeins bridge Monday morning. This simple rite was carried out by the contingent headed by H. H. Konkln of the G. A. R., that conducted the services at the Beaver Creek Cemetery. The custom is an annual one, and keeps aglow the memory of the naval heroes of the country.

At the Catholic Cemetery, J. H. McPherson, of the G. A. R., was in charge of the services, and Miss Faye Cavanaugh, of the Daughters of Veterans, gave Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Rev. William P. O'Connor of Jamestown, former Army Chaplain, gave the Memorial address at the Cemetery.

Matthias, of the State Supreme Court, was the speaker at the chapel exercises at the O. S. & S. O. A Nation Pays Honor

That Old Grand Army Man

BRING the blossoms of the Spring-time
Roses fair and lilies sweet;
Lay them as a loving tribute
On the mound at Valor's feet.
Roses red, and lilies golden,
For the boy in khaki-tan—
And the palm branch and the Laurel
For that old Grand Army Man.

He is aged and bowed and broken,
And his steps are feeble now,
While the snows of many winters
Rest upon his noble brow,
And my eyes grow dim with longing
As the marching ranks I scan
For the grim but gallant figure
Of that old Grand Army Man.

We have seen him in the carnage
On the field of dreadful strife
With sublime and youthful courage
Calmly offer up his life.
We have seen him in the crises
Of the Nation's darkest night,
With his hand and voice uplifted
In defense of truth and right.

And our eyes have seen the fruitage
Of that struggle long ago,
When the Northland and the Southland
Rose to face a common foe;
And their sons went forth as brothers
With one purpose and one plan
To defend the Starry Banner
Of that old Grand Army Man.

High they bore the flag of freedom
Through the storm of leaden rain,
And they kept her, fane untarnished
Through their holo caust of pain.
So today I'd weave a garland,
Glowing as the Heaven's span,
For the gallant boy in khaki—
And that old Grand Army Man.

PANIC REIGNS
WHEN A GUEST
WIELDS PISTOL

One Man Shot During
Celebration of a Double Wedding.

Cleveland, May 30.—Panic replaced festivity at an east side home here early yesterday when an unbidden guest turned his pistol upon a large number of guests celebrating a double wedding. One man was shot so seriously that he may die.

Mary and Antonia Biaggia, sisters, were married Saturday night. The wedding party adjourned to the home of Martin Rogel to celebrate the joyous events with feasting and dancing. One who thought he should have received an invitation did not, but his affianced was there and she danced with a rival. He entered the Rogel home and attempted to take part but was removed by the best man. He returned a second time and was again evicted.

Still once more he came back and this time he immediately opened fire with a revolver raking a long table around which the merry-makers were seated with his fire. Only one of his bullets took effect, John Birk being the injured man.

Bergdoll Wrathful Over
Seizure of His Property

Notorious Draft Dodger Says He Will Make Sensational Revelations In Book Of His Escape Which He Is Writing.

Berlin, May 30.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, rich American draft dodger who is now a refugee in Baden, is wrathful over the seizure of his property in the United States by the American government and he contended today that such action was illegal. Bergdoll revealed that he is writing a book about his escape and intimated that he would make sensational revelations.

A telegram was sent to Bergdoll at Eberbach, asking him if he had any statement to make regarding the seizure of his property. The following answer was received today: "The seizure of my property was absolutely illegal. The alien property law cannot apply to American citizens. I am not a German citizen but an American and I am entitled to all my rights under the law. The move is only calculated to worry my mother and to give the lawyers and politicians a chance to grab off graft. I am well aware that there is a trickery about it or they would not have waited this long for a congressional investigation. They are going to whitewash army officials and lawyers who perjured themselves. They are all involved in this graft game."

"I am writing a book on the whole affair giving the names and all of the details which did not come to light during the inquiry. I shall not return to the United States until amnesty is granted."

LIVES OF SEVEN
SNUFFED OUT AS
PLANE WRECKED

Ambulance Machine Falls
To Ground at Indian
Head, Md.

BLAME BAD STORM

Plane Turns Over and Drops
As Sudden Squall
Strikes It.

Washington, May 30.—Formal investigation of the worst aviation accident in the history of America, which cost the lives of seven men, when a great Curtiss Eagle ambulance plane crashed at Indian Head, Md., Sunday night, is in progress today.

Preliminary investigation has placed the blame for the accident upon the severe electrical storm.

Lieut. Paul Wilkins, who was sent to the scene of the disaster on return here, stated that he had questioned an eye witness and had made a preliminary investigation and found that the storm had caused the trouble.

The great plane was proceeding evenly in the air until the storm broke, Lieut. Wilkins was advised. The wind was blowing a gale and rain was coming down in torrents. The plane had come down to a height of about 150 feet and was at the end of a field where the pilot evidently intended to land until the storm had passed, when a sudden squall came and the ship was seen to stiffen and turn over, finally crashing to the ground.

Lieut. Wilkins stated that in his opinion the pilot could not have avoided the accident and the storm must be blamed.

Officers of the air service are seeking means whereby a repetition of the disaster may be prevented. General Mitchell, assistant chief of the air service, who himself narrowly escaped a crash while following the same path taken by the ill fated ship on Saturday evening declared that immediate steps must be taken to "seek the lesson of this terrible affair." Centralized control of all aerial activities, mapping and marking of air routes and the organization of an efficient radio service to furnish fliers with meteorological information are remedies that General Mitchell suggests.

Arrangements were being made today for funeral ceremonies for the dead: Lieut. Stanley Ames, pilot of the plane; Lieut. Colonel Archie Miller, Maurice Connelly, former member of congress from Iowa; A. G. Batchelder, chairman of the executive board of the American automobile Association, Sergeant Richard Blumenkrantz; Lieut. Cleveland W. McDermott and Lieut. John M. Pennywell.

General Pershing Praises Work of YMCA

Says "Instead of 1,000,000 members of this Association in America, there ought to be 10,000,000."

RIGHT - Dr. John R. Mott, General Secretary of the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. and internationally recognized leader in religious affairs.

"In the field of education, athletics, and recreation the Y. M. C. A. took the lead without any question and about nine-tenths of the welfare work carried on in the A. E. F. was under the direction of the Y. M. C. A." General Pershing told 1200 leaders at the dinner where he was the guest of honor.

"I am particularly happy to have this opportunity of meeting with the representatives of this great Christian organization. In the last three quarters of a century the influence of the Young Men's Christian Association has been extended practically to every corner of the globe. My own personal acquaintance with its endeavors has covered many years and many lands."

"It was during the earlier period of our occupation of the Philippine Islands that I first met Dr. Mott, who even then had become a world figure, whose able direction and foresight gave impulse to others, and who because of his leadership stands foremost today among thousands of able devotees to Young Men's Christian Association ideals. It was at a banquet at Manila on a very warm evening when Dr. Mott was speaking of the future of the Young Men's Christian Association aroused his audience, to warmth that far surpassed that of the climate with the result that there were eventually erected three splendid Young Men's Christian Association buildings—one for young Americans and two for the Filipinos themselves."

"In the island of Mindanao as early as 1903, a young Young Men's Christian Association Secretary followed the troops into the interior and came to my headquarters with his tent and his newspaper and phonograph. Friendly Moros made frequent visits to my camp and on one occasion this secretary appeared among them with his phonograph and permitted several dattos to talk into the machine. Then with something of the air of the magician, he would wave the crowd back and grind out the words spoken by the Moro. Upon hearing their own voices reproduced, they were mystified and stood aghast as much as to say 'There ain't no such darned thing.' The Young Men's Christian Association secretary became very popular and freely went from place to place, among these warlike people quite un molested."

"In China and Japan the influence for good has been immeasurably great. Under the direction of their wide awake secretaries there has grown up a remarkable enthusiasm for physical development. The principal centers of Young Men's Christian Association control are alive with activity and teams in the various sports, meet as frequently as possible to compete internationally for honors. The result has been an extension of Young Men's Christian Association prestige that must have a marked effect not only upon the future of the individuals concerned but upon the relations that the people whom they represent shall bear for each other. It all must lead to a better understanding and draw them and us closer and closer together in friendly intercourse as time goes on. This work richly deserves the unstinted support of all far-seeing Americans."

"The early appearance of the Young Men's Christian Association with the Army was in the days when the soldier was rarely in the minds of our people. Luxury was unknown and none was expected, pay was meagre and the isolation at times became very irksome, so the Young Men's Christian Association worker was a welcome companion and his comfort gratefully received."

"On the border and in Mexico, the Association realized more than ever the opportunity to aid in affording the men of the service clean recreations. It provided reading rooms, clubs, games, lectures, movies, all of which served to keep him from the temptations that constantly follow in the wake of an army, or are found indigenous to the locality where the soldier's lot is so frequently cast."

"The extension of Young Men's Christian Association work in America has been very gratifying. There lies in the heart of every man a desire to live honorably among one's fellows, but humanity is not as yet able to rise much higher than its environment. Where nobling surroundings are absent those of another sort are found and in spite of the better instincts evil influences prevail. But we must not forget that the difficulties of reform are much greater than those of guidance. There are yet some 2,000 cities of over 5,000 inhabitants each in our own country which have not yet been reached by this Association. When we look around and see the wreck of nations it makes us, or should make us, stop and consider our own condition, and I believe that there is no other organization quite so well fitted to meet the need of our young men in America as the Young Men's Christian Association. As a power in the development of good citizens not only among our native born but among the foreign born there is no agency that surpasses the Young Men's Christian Association. Here there opens up a large field of endeavor, wherein many of our own people need not only the spirit of Christianity but the spirit of patriotism as well which is in fact much the same thing. Instead of one million members of this Association in America there ought to be ten millions."

It was in the World War that we came in closest touch with the organization. Your representatives were already in the field when our advance troops reached France. They were ready and anxious to be of every possible service. Supported by our patriotic membership here at home and under the leadership of that able administrator, Mr. Carpenter, the organization began to expand at once to meet her needs. We all had our hands very full in those trying days. The army had to be organized and a great general staff had to be built up to handle the multitude of details as to plans of operations, supply and transportation. It was in the midst of these preparations that I called up Mr. Carter and asked the Young Men's Christian Association to take charge of the army canteens to follow our troops. He responded promptly and entered upon the work as a duty.

"This placed the Young Men's Christian Association on a business basis, involving direct responsibility to the A. E. F., for an immense undertaking. They had to buy and sell without profit just as the army would have done. At first Mr. Carter's request for a certain allowance of tonnage was granted, but as time went on and our limited shipping became less and less able to carry our actual needs in war material, his quota of monthly tonnage was very much reduced even in the face of increasing demands. So through lack of transportation facilities, he was unable to provide canteens with all they required. Furthermore, the personnel of the Young Men's Christian Association had to be expanded in almost the same proportion as the army, had to be organized to conduct this large business, which was only one of its numerous activities with such untrained personnel as would be hastily mustered here at home."

"All these things were a tremendous handicap and when its work came to be compared with that of other welfare organizations operating for less responsibility and covering only special areas, there arose some unjust criticism of which other organizations too often took advantage. But as a matter of fact

CAMP LIFE OFFERED MANY RESIDENTS OF GREENE COUNTY BY GOVERNMENT

Attorney Harry D. Smith has been named Greene County chairman of the Citizens Military Training Camp movement, a position he held during the war, and he is now ready to receive applicants for admission to Camp Knox, Kentucky, the camp of the Fifth Corps Area, including Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia.

The camp will open at Camp Knox, on July 21, and its purpose is to promote good citizenship and an interest in national defense, and to bring together young men of all occupations on a basis of equality under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life. All men between the ages of 16 and 35 who are of sound character, intelligent and physically fit are eligible to attend.

Although no educational qualifications are prescribed, each candidate must first have a certificate of good character signed by school master, clergyman, pastor, priest or rabbi, and also medical testimony from a qualified physician as to hearing, eyesight, heart action and general physical condition. The government pays all expenses, including transportation, uniforms, food and medical care, and will refund transportation paid in going to the camp at the rate of five cents a mile.

Enrollment at the camp implies no later service obligations, although it is hoped that men who attend will be inclined to enroll with the National Guard or the Reserve afterward. The training will be carried on in the spirit that distinguished Plattsburg and other pre-war camps. Uniform instruction and training in the life of a soldier, squad, platoon and company drill, small arms firing practice, guard duty, camping and marching, individual cooking, care of equipment and actual problems in open warfare will be included in the curricula of training of the campers.

The supreme aim of the camp will be physical well-being. Every man is urged to take vaccination against smallpox and anti-typhoid treatment before reporting at camp. Outdoor games and sports will be under the direction of experts and minor bodily defects will be corrected. Leisure time will be taken up with lectures, moving pictures, amateur and professional musical and dramatic entertainments with full use of Post Exchange facilities, mail service and a club room.

Each candidate will bring to camp one piece of hand luggage containing shaving and toilet articles, four suits of underwear, two pairs of pajamas, six pairs of socks, six handkerchiefs, four face towels and two bath towels. It is also well to bring athletic uniforms and bathing suits and musical instruments. Military clothing and equipment will be furnished and laundry service provided.

Camp Knox is located about 35 miles from Louisville, and contains a total of 32,000 acres of rolling plains and wooded mountains, ideally adaptable to camp use. It is the second largest military area in the world, permitting light and heavy artillery to be used in a sham battle of modern proportions. The location was selected by the War Department in 1903 as a troop training camp. It is now an Artillery training camp. It is now an Artillery School of the Army and will be used as a permanent military training center for the whole Mississippi valley. The camp personnel includes units of air service which are used in connection with the artillery target practice for purposes of location and adjustment.

Chaplains and hostesses of the regular Army will be detailed to the camp to take care of campers, and voluntary religious exercises will be held for people of all creeds. There will also be ample opportunity for the reception of visitors.

Greene County's camp quota is 32, and probably the first 32 applicants who pass the qualifications will be permitted to go. Candidates can obtain further information from Mr. Smith, or write the Military Training Camps Association, 200 Mallers Building, Chicago, which is acting as the civilian agency of the War Department for the training camps or by addressing the Commanding General, Fifth Corps Area Headquarters, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

MULCHING POTATOES PROVES SATISFACTORY

The growing of potatoes under a mulch will prove highly satisfactory in the great majority of seasons and on most soils, says L. M. Montgomery, Department of Horticulture Ohio State University. The potatoes may be planted in the ordinary way and a mulch of old musty hay, straw, or straw manure applied to a depth of from four to six inches. Or the mulch may be applied after the potatoes are well started. The mulch conserves the moisture, keeps the ground cool and of loose texture as well as adding some plant food. The practice is valuable for both early and late planting.

The saving in cultivation will fully compensate for the expense of materials and labor in application, and the yields will be more certain and greater than under ordinary culture, says Professor Montgomery.

ANOTHER FIREMAN ADDED TO XENIA'S QUOTA OF FIGHTERS

Acting in conjunction with the recommendation of the Ohio Inspection Bureau of Columbus, the city has appointed Roy Mendenhall a regular member of the fire department.

The Bureau representatives said the Department needed one more fireman to round out its quota, and the city immediately appointed Mendenhall who is a former member of the Department and an experienced fireman and truck driver.

Hereafter both trucks will be taken out on every fire, in accordance with the recommendation of the Bureau. In the past the White triple combination piece, which carries ladders enough for any residence or ordinary height building, has been the only piece used, and the Republic truck, which also carries an extension and a hook ladder has been left in the house ready to be coupled to ladder truck in case of an emergency at a downtown building. In the future both trucks will be taken out, and the ladder truck will be left in the house unless a tall building is threatened, when it will be brought to the scene of the fire.

Both trucks did not answer the alarm at the South Detroit Street overhead bridge Saturday night as it was a still alarm and the Department could do nothing anyway.

Beauty Chats

ATTRACTIVE SMILES

There is a theory about art or artistic objects, which I think applies to human beings as well as to inanimate things. The theory is that the sense of pleasure and of beauty that we have when we look upon any work of art, is not only the combination of forms and colors that compose the object but the feeling the artist himself had when he made the object.

We look at a really fine painting, for instance and we not only feel the rightness of the lines and coloring but something that was in the soul of the artist that made him want to express himself in just such lines and colors.

That is why handmade things are lovelier than machine-made objects of greater perfection, perhaps. But this not to be a talk about art!

But I believe it is that same thing which makes a smile, or a glance attractive or otherwise. A smile is not a widening of the lips and a glimpse of white teeth! It may be that physically and the minute muscular changes, may convey every shade of meaning, so that the smile may be gentle, whimsical, cynical, alluring or forbidding.

But it is far more than that. The most perfectly shaped pink lips, displaying the whitest most even teeth, may form a smile that is anything but attractive. And lips homely in shape and teeth that are anything but lovely, can yet give a smile that will convey a sense of charm and friendliness.

It is the spirit behind the smile just as it is the spirit behind the work of art. And this spirit is something easy to cultivate in yourself—easier indeed, than to cultivate rosebud lips and far more important.

Betty C.—A fine organdy would make a charming party dress for a girl of 15 and white is a good choice. It can be worn over apple green taffeta, which will combine well other colors, such as artistic shades of blue, pink or yellow for soft girdles or other embellishment.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM BREAKS OVER XENIA ON SATURDAY

A storm that broke over Xenia and vicinity shortly before eight o'clock Saturday evening, excelled all other spring storms for severity of electrical display.

Lightning struck several places in the county, the severest loss being occasioned at the home of Richard Hurst on the Cincinnati pike, where a barn was struck and burned to the ground with its contents.

On South Detroit street, the severe lightning that preceded the heavy down pour of rain struck an electric light pole at the intersection of the Baltimore & Ohio rail road, shattering the top of the pole and showering pedestrians with splinters.

The electricity followed the trolley wires of the city line to the overhead bridge of the Pennsylvania railroad on South Detroit street, where it set fire to the wooden trough in which the trolley is laid under the bridge. The fire department answered a still alarm to the scene, but the repair crew of the electric line company took care of the trouble. City car service was discontinued because of the damage.

Lights were out in the city for a short time during the storm, but the damage to the lines of the Dayton Power & Light Company, was quickly repaired and service resumed.

Telephone companies experienced some damage due to the storm. The Springfield & Xenia Telephone Company, got off the lightest, little damage being reported from the storm. The Ohio Bell Telephone Company had trouble on the Fair Ground road, and also north of Bellbrook, several poles being down.

Saturday night crowds were undeterred by the storm, throngs packing the streets until a late hour, despite the rainfall early in the evening.

OPINION IS GIVEN BY ONE WRITER ON "MAIN STREET"

Much discussion and divided opinion have followed in the wake of "Main Street" the story of small town life by Sinclair Lewis. Many seem of the opinion that the story is to be condemned as exaggerated and as not running true to form in accordance with small town life.

Others say that much amusement may be gained by those who are acquainted with the smaller American cities, since the book is thought to contain much that characterizes these towns apart from the rest.

The opinion of the latter class is seen in the view of "The Rounder" in the Franklin, Ohio, Chronicle, who takes the theme of the story as parallel to his own home town. The story is as follows:

Of course you have read "Main Street," the best seller and Sinclair Lewis's delightful analysis of small town life. After more than 400 pages of incident in the life of Gopher Prairie, a town about the size of Franklin, in which you recognize all your friends and fellow-citizens, including the venomous gossip, the social climber, the tattler, the jealous cat and the various characters which go to make up village life, you came across the real purpose of the book in a single sentence, when the author tells you that the secret of happiness in a small town lies in "an attitude of amiable contemptuousness" toward what other people say and do. I thoroughly enjoyed "Main Street," and heartily recommend it to my friends who care to read a really worth while book. Every week I see incidents in our village life that remind me of the incidents in "Main Street."

This week it was the following: "Two high school boys went up to the K. of P. Hall last Friday morning to see the decorations left from the Married Folks Dance of the night before. As boys will go, they looked about a bit and found a jar of punch left in the kitchen. This they appropriated and took to the school field meet at Lebanon. Nothing particularly wrong about it except that they should have asked for it and the committee would gladly have given it to them. But, land's sake, that wasn't the small town feature of the incident at all. Soon it became whispered that the school children had stolen a bucket of the Married Folk's Dancing Club's punch and that it had made them "woozie" because it had been spiked by the committee that gave the dance. An "amiable contemptuousness" alone can save one from getting hot under the collar when such silly lies are told. It is necessary to say that the punch was made of pure and sweet fruit juices that it was as harmless as lemonade? Ye gods, read "Main Street" and pick 'em out—the ones that lie and gossip and make trouble just for the pure devilry of it.

WHISKEY TOO MUCH

Mrs. Lucy Green, colored, and a half pint of whiskey, were both taken into custody by Motorcycle Policeman Clark Stethem Sunday on charges of plain drunk.

Advance Reports received here from Dayton said Lucy was having a high time on the Dayton and Xenia traction car, and when the car arrived here, she was arrested. She had been in Toledo where she was subpoenaed as witness on a trial, and said her sister had given her a pint of whiskey when she left. She reduced the pint a half on the trip from Toledo. Judge Smith fined her $5 and costs in Police Court Monday morning.

COLUMBUS FIRM BUYS CEDARVILLE LIME COMPANY

An increase in industrial importance of Cedarville is anticipated with the purchase of the entire holdings of the Cedarville Lime Company, by the Abel Magnesia Co., of Columbus.

The new owners propose the erection of a $300,000 plant on the old Lime Company site, and the operation of the company on a large scale. Offices of the Abel Co., will be moved from Columbus to Cedarville as soon as possible, it is said.

Directors of the Cedarville Lime Company, have not given out the consideration of the transfer. The Company has been operated four or five years, and had a capitalization of $50,000 which was floated among Cedarville people. The Company has been working from 20 to 25 men steadily until several days ago the plant now being idle pending the start of the new company.

Representatives of the old Company say that the limestone deposits at Cedarville are unlimited in quantity and contain many valuable properties. It is also said to be purer than most limestone and for that reason is considered high grade material for the manufacture of magnesia.

Magnesia has many commercial properties that are considered invaluable, and it is used extensively now in the manufacture of magnesia steam pipe and boiler coverings, in chemicals and rubber, besides its medicinal properties. The bi-product known as carbonate of lime, which is precipitated when the magnesia is removed, is also valuable as a fertilizer. It is also used extensively in the manufacture of rubber tire.

The purchase of the Cedarville Company by the Abel organization with the announcement of the new plant, is expected to mean that many will be given employment in the Cedarville plant, thereby greatly increasing the industrial importance of that village.

REVERENCE FOR THE SOLDIER.

We cannot tell why through all the years the soldier stands out as the great character in history. We cannot explain why every generation has carried its memorials for him and arisen to the highest expression of its eloquence under his heroic deeds. Nevertheless, great warriors have been the great centers around which the movements of the historic generations have revolved. We do not express this as any defense of the militant character or as a justification for the perpetuity of this kind. But look down yonder through the vista of the years upon the past ages and see who the outstanding men are. Cannot you see Napoleon and Wellington and Nelson and Cromwell and Bismarck and Charlemagne and Charles Martel and Alaric and Attila the Hun, Julius Caesar, Alexander the Great, Judas Maccabaeus, David the conqueror of the Philistines, Joshua the victor over the Midianites, and Moses, whose magical rod engulfed the Egyptians in the trough of the Red Sea? These all have remained in history because of their dominating personality and their marvelous ability to conquer their enemies and overwhelming circumstances.

It is difficult for the average human mind to become reconciled to this interpretation of human life. For it is his faith that enlightenment should eliminate the impulses of the jungle from the human spirit, that he should not be known as a fighter but as a peacemaker, and that his future welfare should be determined not by the excellence of his brawn but by the marvelousness of his brain.

Yet, so it is, that forth go the multitudes of humanity with flowers in their hands and wreaths of green leaves, and memorial songs on their tongues, declaring the immortal name of those who died that their fellows might live.

SELLING MATRIMONY.

There will be general approval of the action of the Presbyterian General Assembly in sustaining the removal of the Presbyterian pastor at Elkton, Md. The "marrying parson" has been bringing discredit on a compact which by the very wording of the service is to be entered into reverently and discreetly. A marriage at Elkton has been a travesty of the dignity and sanctity of the proper ceremony. Young couples imperfectly acquainted, obviously immature and frivolously indifferent to responsibilities assumed, are fairly "shanghaied" between trains, haled before the waiting clergyman, hustled through a service and dismissed after the fee is paid, to make room for another pair. This wholesale and mercenary business, demoralizing to personal character and auxiliary to low standards of conduct and to the activity of divorce courts, is discreditable to the pastor, to his own church and to the church at large.

It may be asked why a limit is placed on the number of marriages a clergyman may lawfully perform. The exception is not taken to the number of marriages in itself, but to the nature of these transactions. In many cases it is obviously the safe assumption that the marriage should not take place. It cannot be said of a large part of these Elkton runaway matches that it is God who is joining the parties together, for the sake of a few dollars the minister declares unfit persons man and wife. It is difficult to see how it is possible to take seriously the sermonizing of a minister who talks from the pulpit a lofty morality and in practice adopts so deplorable a code of ethics. No church worthy of the name is going to encourage a procedure that breaks down the barriers whereby society is attempting to safeguard the institution of matrimony—which is far too lightly regarded already.

IT BEHOOVES US ALL TO BE SAVING OF OUR NATURAL GAS.

The lessons on conservation and waste taught by the fuel gas experts who attended the annual convention of The Natural Gas Association of America, which convened in Music Hall, Cincinnati, Ohio, Monday, May 17, 1921, will not be forgotten, and made a profound impression on the thousands who visited the exhibit.

If the natural gas consumer will take the trouble to observe a few simple rules he will immediately feel the benefit in reduced gas bills. He should learn that the blue flame makes for efficiency and the yellow flame makes for waste. He should learn that the blue flame must come in direct contact with the cooking utensil, or as in the case of reconstructed coal or wood stoves, where the utensil rests on an iron plate instead of a grid. The loss in heat units is 87 per cent or more; he should learn the distance between the burner and the surface to be heated must not be greater than one and one quarter inches.

Those who refuse to learn the simple art of burning natural gas fuel without waste are paying for their own extravagance in unnecessarily heavy monthly gas bills and spending good money that could be used handily in other household expenses.

THE LITTLE GREEN TENTS.

The little green tents where the soldiers sleep, and the sunbeams play and the women weep, are covered with flowers today; and between the tents walk the weary few, who were young and stalwart in 'sixty-two, when they went to the war away. The little green tents are built of sod, and they are not long, and they are not broad, but the soldiers have lots of room; and the sod is part of the land they saved, when the flag of the enemy darkly waved, the symbol of doom. The little green tent is a thing divine; the little green tent is a country's shrine, where patriots kneel and pray; and the brave men left, so old, so few, were young and stalwart in 'sixty-two, when they went to the war away!

IN HALLOWED MEMORY OF LIBERTY'S MARTYRED HEROES

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Memorial services in memory of the soldier dead, were held in this city today. Despite the threatening weather, there were a large number here for all the exercises and the day was generally observed, the business men closing their stores, and business being suspended for the time. The Greene County Medical Society met Thursday at the Grand Hotel. It was an unusual meeting, and there were about 20 members of the society present. Mr. Walter McCrevey, who has been a student of the Culver

Military academy returned home last night, having completed his work for the year.

The wind last night blew out the large plate glass in the door of the Davidson drug store, on Green street, smashing it to pieces. The glass was insured.

Mr. Harry McPherson, conductor on the Pan-Handle, has moved from his Springfield home to a house on West Third street.

Miss Julia B. McCormick left last night for Cincinnati to spend a week or so with her aunt, Mrs. W. E. Hopton.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

French women have long been famous for making money go far.

From childhood they are trained in all the departments of that universal and most exacting business of women, the spending of money—the making of ends meet.

In the vast majority of instances this demands just as much adeptness, just as much judgment and care, as the masculine business of making money.

So let us give due credit to the woman of France. Her garments are fresh, dainty and of the latest fashion. Her hats are models of bewitching becomingness and good style.

And yet she spends in a season far less than her European sisters of the same financial and social standing. Also she prides herself on the achievement.

What are models?
Surprisingly simple.

She uses her eyes and her brain. She knows values when she sees them, and never neglects a buying opportunity. But by no means is she without rival in this today.

Merchants whose judgment means something say that the modern American woman is without peer as a discriminating purchaser—that her alertness to price advantage, her keenness in questions of style and quality are unmatched by any other nation.

They attribute this development of recent years to the education they themselves have provided—the education of advertising—and they offer ample evidence that such is the fact.

A review of this evidence would be lengthy and tiresome, and we can more easily find the truth for ourselves. Make it your own case.

You know that reputable merchants, in these days, deal with truth in their advertising—that when values are stated they are legitimate values—that when certain savings are offered those savings actually exist.

You no longer have to depend entirely on your own judgment. If the article you seek is advertised, the reputation of the advertiser is your guarantee of its worth.

So it may be well said that we of America are expert shoppers—that we get the most for our money—because we follow advertising. This is palpably the truth.

But that doesn't mean that we are constant seekers of price concessions. The benefits of advertising are as great in several other directions. It gives, for example, authentic style information and promotes high standards of quality.

So it is apparent that the woman best equipped to do the most efficient shopping for herself and her home is she who keeps closest watch on the printed offerings of merchants and manufacturers.

Practical Business Talks

THE TRUE VALUE OF A CUSTOMER.

Have you ever answered an advertisement in one of the magazines?

Perhaps you have signed one of those cute little coupons requesting "further information." In return you receive perhaps a short, uninteresting letter or a booklet, neither at all convincing or very enlightening.

Few business men realize the value of an inquiry just as few of them know the value of a customer or the value of a complaint.

Inquiries from advertisements in the big magazines often cost as high as $50 or $60 apiece. The inquiries are of little value until they are turned into sales. Yet many manufacturers insert splendid advertisements and at the same time woefully neglect inquiries. They do not appreciate their value. They do not follow them up.

A customer walks into a big store and makes some trifling purchases. "All the store's advertising for years has had as its object inducing people to visit the stores. Yet often when a customer does visit the store, she is neglected. Perhaps she would have purchased five or six articles if she had been gracefully "rotated" from one department to another by a diplomatic salesman. The true value of a customer is seldom realized by the merchant and almost never by the sales person. Yet it is that little lady, walking up the store aisle who makes the store possible. She pays salaries—heed, then, the customer.

Seventy five per cent of people who have "complaints" about a store's service never make them. Only 25% ever take the trouble to make a complaint. If three persons complain about a salesman's carelessness, it is safe to assume that nine other persons have been similarly offended. Complaints are of value to the merchant in helping him to correct faults in his organization. Successful merchandising takes due consideration of the real value of:

1. The inquiry.
2. The customer.
3. The complaint.

"THE LEGION OF THE DEAD"

One day, I chanced to take a walk,
Through the "City of the Dead."
Mere idle words, folk's did not talk;
There, words were left unsaid;
In France, where lies, "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD."

Beside the monuments, I stood;
My vision, seemed to blur with tear's;
Beneath me, lay the "Brother-Hood";
Their glory undimmed, by the fading years;
Serene in Equality, "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD."

Swallow's, were flying overhead,
I could hear the wailing of a Loon;
Here, in the "City of the Dead,"
Their's, the only earthly tune;
A requiem to, "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD?"

I paused beside the marker, white,
Of a soldier, khaki clad;
One, who died, in the "Argonne" fight!
An earthen bed, for this brave lad,
In union with, "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD."

A medal, once upon his breast, he wore;
The "Croix de Guerre," with Palm, his fame,
Fighting for his country, he evened the score;
Until Eternity, "Praise ye his name!"
A "Bond-Brother," in "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD."

No favorites, doth the "Grim- Reaper" pick,
Else, why should he snuff the youthful life,
Of this lad, who fell where shell's were thick,
And take him from this world of strife,
Into Eternity with, "THE LEGION OF THE DEAD?"

By GEORGE F. A. KILLEEN.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF
PETER THE GREAT

May 30, 1672

One of the most amazing and romantic characters to be found in history is that of Peter the Great of Russia. He was born at Moscow in 1672 and almost the only tutor he had was the Court fool. Among his earliest experiences was to see the bodies of his family and friends dragged through the streets and torn apart by the mobs. He was naturally a super-sensitive child and some of these early scenes of horror completely ruined his nervous system.

He was 11 years old when he developed a passion for it which influenced all his later life and all of subsequent Russian history. He left the Royal Palace to live in a hut on the shore and build ships with his own hand. The result of this love for the ocean was the Russian Navy and eventually the war with Turkey and greater power of the Russian nation.

What Peters decided to learn he learned thoroughly. When he turned his attention to the Army he travelled all over Europe to study militarism. As a result of his trip he saw how far behind Russia was in civilization. He began to educate his countrymen by making them abolish certain ancient customs and costumes. He assembled the chieftain of the country around his hut, which he preferred to his Palace and with his own hands cut off their long beards and mustaches. He worked hard for Russia and at the time of his death in 1725 left in better condition.

From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for six years with pain every month, had vomiting spells the first two days, and was unfit to do my work."

I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am a mother and wife and recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and my daughters as a natural restorative.

take it. You may publish these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LOUISE STOLL, 609 W. York St., Phila., Pa.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in nine cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those dreadful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.

SWEETHEARTS HALF A CENTURY AGO, WED IN HOUSE FOR OLD FOLKS

Mr. & Mrs. Theophile La France, INDIANAPOLIS.

A boy and girl romance begun fifty years ago in a small Canadian town culminated recently in the wedding of Theophile La France, seventy-three years ago and Anna Crover, seventy-two, in a home for the aged at San Diego, Cal. Through a misunderstanding the couple separated and lost trace of each other. After half a century they met at the San Diego home and following a brief courtship they were wedded. "We can't live long, but we can die together," declared La France. And so they awaited eagerly the coming of the Summer flowers and sunshine to brighten their first year together after the lost half century. The photograph shows the aged

The fund was greatly increased through the staging of the unique attraction and the girls propose to give a return engagement. The photograph shows one of the fair contestants clearing the bar in a hurdle race.

AMERICAN GIRL FREED FROM MARQUIS'S SON

Lady George Cholmondeley, INDIANAPOLIS.

Shortly after the ceremony to former Miss Clara Elizabeth Taylor, of Washington, lately Lady George Cholmondeley, of London, is free from her titled husband, according to dispatches from London. A decree of divorce was granted her from Lord George Cholmondeley, the second son of the fourth Marquis of Cholmondeley on the usual grounds of desertion costs and the custody of their only child.

INCORRECT AND CORRECT POSTURE FOR STENOGRAPHER

How do you sit, Miss Stenographer at your typewriter? Like the girl at the left or the one on the right? The New York Health Centre of the Y. W. C. A. has started a campaign to teach young women to be healthy. Posture has much to do with one's health and the first step in the campaign is to instruct girls and women to sit properly. The subject in these photographs is demonstrating the right and wrong ways to sit. In the wrong way, shown at the left, the body rests on the end of the spine, the back and shoulders are rounded, the chest hollowed, the head bent and the feet crossed and sprawled. The right way, shown at the right, is to sit well back on the chair, feet on the floor back straight and head and chin up.

PRUSSIA'S NEW CABINET.

Next in importance to the Cabinet of the German Chancellor, is the Cabinet of Prussia, which controls the government of the most influential

THE GREATEST NAVY SPECTACLE SINCE BEFORE THE WAR

More than sixty ships of war, led by the flagship Pennsylvania, were in the column that filed past the Mayflower in honor of President Harding in Hampton Roads. It was the President's first review of any part of the nation's fleet, since he assumed office and it was the navy's first opportunity to salute him. Throughout the entire review there was a continuous roar as each vessel passing the Mayflower opened up the thunder of the President's salute. This photo shows the long line of ships passing by the Mayflower (in the right foreground.) Airplanes and dirigibles hovered over the fleet and the Presidential yacht throughout the review.

WILL NAME WINNER OF CARPENTIER-DEMPSEY BOUT IF IT GOES LIMIT.

Because of the possibility of the Carpentier-Dempsey championship battle going the limit of twelve rounds Tex Rickard has decided on a plan to officially name the winner of the bout in spite of the New Jersey laws prohibiting a referee's decision. Rickard will ask Jim Jeffries, Lord Lonsdale and Jim Corbett to act as judges in the case of necessity. It is probable that the principals in the great bout will agree to abide by the decision of the judges should there fail to be a 'knockout.' The judges' decision will also serve to decide the thousands of wagers on the battle.

Aged Inventor Bores Hole Lengthwise Through a Pin.

When wishing to indicate the smallest thing that the average human brain can conceive one usually hinks of a pin point. Imagine then the delicate and careful skill required to drill a hole lengthwise through a pin. William Humans, an expert watchmaker, of Cambridge, Mass., has performed this unusual feat. He has the pin now with a wire running through the hole as a proof of his skill. A great many people have gone to his tiny shop to see it. Humans, who is an inventor and electrical expert, claims to have invented the telephone two years before Bell. Both Bell and Humans worked on the same principle of the telephone about the same time. Humans achieved the first, and, he believes, the more perfect results, but Bell received the credit and the reward.

NOTED INVENTOR DISCOVERS FLUID THAT GOES UP HILL.

Fred A. Howard, the noted chemist and scientist of Boston, has discovered a fluid which he claims will run up hill. Korite, the name he has given the fluid is of so fine a consistency that it acts physically upon particles invisible to the naked eye. Thorough tests with leather have proven that Korite by lubricating and preserving the fibres in leather doubles the wearing power of ordinary shoe leather and makes it pliable and waterproof. Korite is the third important discovery Mr. Howard has made, and the textile and leather trades claim that his trio of finds means billions of dollars saved to the consumer. In the upper photo he is shown demonstrating his fire-proof solution. The lower photo shows the inventor of Korite, the leather life saver in his laboratory.

ENGLAND IS FACED BY NEW PERIL OF RED TERROR NOW

London.—Lenin, the agent of Germany, who was sent to Russia with ten million dollars of German money with which to remove Russia from the war, is today working in the interests of Germany by attempting to spread revolution in England, thereby removing her from the field of industrial competition. Such is the interpretation of the facts behind Britain's present industrial crisis given by the Duke of Northumberland, England's greatest land owner and coal baron. He assumes the rank and file of labor from the charge of being the conscious tools of Lenin, and hence of Germany, but declares that the attempt to extend Britain's coal strike to the Triple Alliance, including railway and transport workers "if realized, would have meant and was intended to mean revolution."

"The main purpose and origin of the strike remain a sealed book to most Englishmen," he said. "The first fact to realize is that we have in our midst today a powerful enemy organization working for our destruction. This enemy is known as the Red International of Moscow. It is controlled by a body of Russian and Jewish adventurers whose purpose is the abolition of all law, order, morality and religion throughout the world; in fact, the destruction of civilization. In order to achieve this purpose, the first aim is the complete overthrow of the British Empire, because that is the principal bulwark of law and order in the world."

German intrigue is scented. "In the course of a few months Lenin succeeded in demoralizing the Russian people, and in the course of four years the greatest empire in the world has been reduced to a chaos and barbarism more degraded than that of any savage race. The immediate result of Lenin's success was that Germany was enabled, in the Spring of 1918 to concentrate overwhelming numbers in France, and almost to inflict a decisive defeat on the British and French armies. When the war came to an end, a defeated and humiliated, but still defiant and unrepentant Germany looked about her for the means of repairing the losses she had suffered in territory and in wealth and of recovering her position in the world. "She used Russian Bolshevism for the purpose of sowing the seeds

WHEN HARDING PRESENTED MME. CURIE WITH GRAM OF RADIUM FROM U. S. WOMEN

Mme. Curie, on arm of President Harding, descending White House steps after the ceremony. Mrs. Harding, in white, is on the steps above the president.

President Harding has made many presentation speeches since he entered the White House, but what was perhaps the most impressive one was that which gave to Mme. Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, a gram of the precious element as a gift from the American women. The gram is to be used by Mrs. Curie for experimental purposes, partly in the interest of curing cancer. After the president had presented the gram to Mme. Curie the party descended the White House steps to have their pictures taken. The photo was snapped as they descended the steps to the lawn.

of revolution in all the entente countries. In doing this she ran great risks since the poison was bound to spread to Germany itself. But even she has justified her in taking the risks; every revolutionary movement in Germany has been ruthlessly suppressed.

"If the risk was great the prize was also great; it was the same prize that she had striven for during the war—world dominion. Triple Alliance Dangerous Weapon

"After the conclusion of the war the executive who was in the closest touch with the Soviet Government through its emissary, Litvinoff, endeavored to bring about a strike of the Triple Alliance before the country had time to recover from the confusion caused by demobilization, this strike being intended to lead to a revolution. There is no doubt at all about this. Lenin informed us that he saw in the Triple Alliance a very formidable weapon for creating a revolution in this country. Since that time every effort has been made to corrupt its leaders and to bring about a situation which would be favorable for striking a blow at the very foundation of our social and industrial system. The railway strike of 1919 and the coal strike of 1920 were preliminaries to the great coup."

"After the last coal strike Mr. Brace and Mr. Vernon Harshorn were given their dismissal. They were honest and patriotic men for whom there was no place in a revolutionary organization."

"Red agents," Northumberland charges, "have found support even among moderate labor leaders. Dread Terror Ahead."

"It was not these moderate leaders who prevented the Triple Alliance strike. The only reason it did not take place was that they found that their men would not follow them into revolution. So they threw over the miners at the eleventh hour. They were confronted with the alternatives of betraying their colleagues or of betraying their country and they preferred the former alternative, but they only decided not to betray their country when they knew the British workman would not support them."

"When Germany sent Lenin to Russia she entrusted him with three tasks: first to demoralize and ruin Russia; second, to set up an organization for spreading revolution in the entente countries; thirdly to hand Russia over to Germany. These three tasks have now been fulfilled the third within the last few weeks. The exploitation of Russia by Germany has begun. And it will not be very long before this flimsy peace settlement with its flimsy new Central European States and its flimsy League of Nations is scattered by the winds and Germany with Russia's help makes another bid for the domination of the world. And the true measure of danger may be judged when we remember that we are no longer a united nation confronting a foreign menace; the enemy today is not only without but within—there are traitors in the camp."

OHIO SELLS 31 PER CENT OF ALL SAVINGS SECURITIES IN U. S.

Columbus, O., May 30.—There are no hard times in Ohio! At least that is the opinion of treasury department officials after viewing the April report for the sale of government savings securities, for the Buckeye state sold 31 per cent of all the savings securities sold in the United States.

The sale in Ohio of these securities which include War Savings Stamps and treasury savings certificates amounted to $742,063.15 during April while the sales in New York State the second highest were only $195,248. ## SALE OF PUREBRED SHORTHORNS WILL OCCUR AT LONDON

The next event of special business importance to farmers and breeders in this section, is the Madison Co. association sale of blooded Shorthorn cattle—30 females and 10 bulls—which takes place on Wednesday June 1st at London, O. From the standpoint of the buyer this sale is a real opportunity since the present conditions of prices are all in favor of the buyer and not the seller it is said. Just the same the association proposes to carry on its laid out program of periodical sales and in this event which will help raise the standard of herds is the report. The consignors are sending some of their best cattle and bidding will have good reason to be spirited regardless of existing prices.

TEN-ACRE CORN CONTEST INTERESTS MANY FARMERS

Entries in the Men's 10-Acre Corn Contest are coming in rapidly, and the outlook is favorable for the largest enrollment yet secured, according to Professor W. E. Hanger crops specialist of the Ohio State University.

This contest is conducted by the University with the co-operation of the county farm bureaus. The aim is to raise an average of 100 or more bushels per acre on 10 acres. All yields are calculated to a uniform moisture content and to a basis of shelled corn. Each county has its own contest, and the county winners compete for the state championship. Gold medals are awarded by the University to the winners in each county, and a loving cup to the state champion. Each winner is also enrolled in the 100-Bushel Corn Club of Ohio.

Rules and entry blanks may be secured from the county agent in your county, or from the Department of farm crops, the Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster arrived here Friday from St. Louis, where Dr. Webster is on the faculty of the Xenia Theological Seminary, removed from this city to St. Louis some time ago.

They have already purchased a home in St. Louis and expect to move there some time in the summer, not yet having decided on the date when they will leave Xenia. They expect to spend at least part of the summer here, however, at their home on East Second street. Dr. and Mrs. Webster and their family regret very much their having to leave Xenia, and their many friends here also regret their departure.

DID'NT ENJOY HEARTY MEAL IN THIRTY YEARS

"I Believe I'm the Happiest Woman in Town," Says Miller Since Health Has Been Restored by Tanlac.

"I just believe I am the happiest woman in town," said Mrs. Jennie M. Miller, 24 Maxine Place, East Akron, Ohio, in relating her experience with Tanlac. "At the time I began taking Tanlac," explained Mrs. Miller, "I was so nervous I couldn't hold a spoon to my lips to take a dose without spilling some of it. For three years I had not known what it was to enjoy a meal. Always after eating I had a heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach and just felt miserable. To do my housework was out of the question, for I didn't have strength enough to sweep."

REPORTS DECLARE FESS CANDIDATE FOR SENATE 1922

Washington newspaper dispatches again put forward the name of the Honorable Simeon D. Fess of Yellow Springs, congressman from this district and chairman of the Republican congressional committee, as the Republican candidate for the 1922 senatorial contest.

The dispatches say that indications are that Governor Harry L. Davis, who it is believed is anxious for the senatorial nomination, is not now in favor of the administration and that the congressman from this county, is more to the liking of party leaders.

Congressman Fess is described as a "capable legislator," and "safe, sane and loyal" and is looked upon as the best vote-getter in the field. It will be remembered that Dr. Fess denied that he had expressed himself favorably to the candidacy some time ago while at his home in Yellow Springs, but it is said now that he is favorable to the nomination but will not announce it until he believes the time to be more favorable.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN RESULTING IN ENTIRE LOSS

Loss estimated at more than $2,000 including three head of horses was sustained when the barn on the farm of Richard Hurst, Cincinnati, was struck by lightning shortly before eight o'clock Saturday night and burned to the ground.

Three head of horses were consumed in the flames, with a quantity of grain and farm implements. Four horses were in the structure at the time the blaze started, but one broke its halter and escaped through an open door.

Mr. Hurst was not at home at the time the fire started, two women being in the house, his housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Ellis and her mother, Mrs. Eliza Blanton. So quickly did the flames spread, however after the lightning struck the building that it would have been impossible to save the structure, it is thought.

Besides the three horses lost, 75 bushels of wheat, 300 bushels of corn and a ton of hay were consumed in the flames as well as a double riding corn plow, a runabout a fan mill and a quantity of harness. The barn was a frame structure, 40 by 100 feet in size. Mr. Hurst was able only to place an estimate on his loss after the fire, but he said it would be $2,000 easily. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Archibald Webster, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster of this city, who are preparing to remove this summer to St. Louis, will graduate from Princeton University at the commencement exercises to be held June 21.

Mr. Webster will receive his A. B. degree at this time, and has already accepted a position on the faculty of the Countryday School, a private institution of learning, eleven miles from St. Louis, which is a tribute to the record he has made at Princeton.

Mr. Webster now wears the Phi Beta Kappa key, having been elected to that society recently. He has majored in history, with considerable attention also to English and mathematics and is expected to teach one of these lines.

His brother, Chauncey Webster, who is sophomore at Princeton this year, has also been honored by his election as art editor of the Princeton Tiger, the official College magazine. He has been connected with the art staff of

NEW BUREAU IS ESTABLISHED TO AID OHIO FARMERS

The Greene County Farm Bureau is calling the attention of its members to the new Investigational Bureau formed by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The purpose of the Bureau is to investigate the reliability of firms whose stocks are being offered for sale, especially farmers, and also of any other products of doubtful value which are being disposed of through the country.

The new Investigational Bureau is given credit for having brought Nolan and Brennenman, who were introducing "Noxine" to farmers as a stock remedy, to light and caused their prosecution, and it is said the Bureau is now attacking the firms that bore holes in fruit trees as a means of curing tree disease.

The advantages of the Investigational Bureau are open to any member of the Farm Bureau on request, and an investigation will be made free of charge by this bureau on request. Reports of the activities of this Bureau in connection with fraudulent schemes are filed with the Greene County Bureau, where they can be inspected by local members for their information.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

Chapter 54.

Keith had been very generous with me as regarded money. So I was able to get many little delicacies for father and also hire a good nurse to relieve mother.

Here are two signed checks," he said. "Fill them out for what you need." This was in addition to the money he had given me. I couldn't help but think as I put them carefully away, what Margaret would say did she know of his generosity.

I don't think money ever gave me as much happiness as that did in doing what I could for father and mother. Dad was very sick. He knew me, but couldn't talk. Mother looked white but so worried that I think she was more to be pitied than the invalid. She suffered with him and for him.

The days passed. Father grew almost imperceptibly weaker, but otherwise was the same as when I arrived. Keith wrote me regularly—nice, sympathetic letters, never forgetting to give me some message from Margaret. Occasionally I wondered if she sent them or if he did it to make me feel more kindly toward her.

Then came a letter telling me they were leaving for the country. "I suppose you remember," Keith wrote, "that Margaret has invited Alice De Lisle to stay with her. She would have been lonely without you. I think it a very good arrangement. I shall not be able to go down every night, but shall try to run down Fridays and remain until Monday morning. I think that will set me up nicely."

There was much more, but nothing that particularly interested me after I read that he would be with Alice De Lisle practically three days a week. I had tried to do as Sallie had asked; being as bright and cheerful as possible. But now it was a terrible effort to hide from mother and Sallie the fact that I was worried. I was more than sick, sick at heart.

Had I not known that Margaret disliked me as intensely, only because I had married her brother I would not have been so anxious. But long ago I had made up my mind that she would be delighted if Keith would get rid of me by separation or divorce. And it would be in keeping with her jealous character, I thought to play Alice De Lisle off against me—not to have Keith marry her, but to eliminate me in some way.

"What is it, Vera? Did your letter contain bad news?" Sallie asked? "You haven't been the same since it came."

"No—Keith and Margaret are in the country. That is, Keith goes down over week-ends."

"There's nothing in that to draw such a long face about."

"Perhaps there wouldn't be if Margaret hadn't invited an old sweetheart of Keith's to stay with her."

"Jealous are you?"

"Yes, I am! I blurted out, and then told Sallie of the night at the opera, of Margaret sending for Keith when we were down at his mothers and having Alice De Lisle there to dine with him and to play and sing afterward for his entertainment. I told of how Margaret had maneuvered to keep me home from the bridge club and had paired Keith off with Mrs. De Lisle."

Once started, I kept nothing back—even the story of Mrs. Brown the old housekeeper, had told me of Margaret's devotion to Keith when they were tiny children, of her actions the night Keith had taken Alice De Lisle, a young girl then, to see his people.

"That sister-in-law of yours is certainly a bird!" Sallie said when I had finished. "But Keith married you in spite of her and I don't think you need worry about his leaving you."

"But she makes me so unhappy she may drive me to leave him," I moaned. "You don't know—you wouldn't believe the things she does to annoy me, to make me unhappy. I try, really I try, not to notice, to think that as long as Keith loves me nothing matters. But it does matter. I am getting so cross, so impatient. She keeps my nerves all raw, and I am ready to scream a good deal of the time."

"Does Keith know?"

"No. And no one could make him understand. He takes all Margaret's meddling, her bossing her interfering as signs of sisterly interest. A man is awfully dense, Sallie, where women are concerned."

"You would like to go home, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, and no. I hate to leave father, and it doesn't seem right that you and mother should have all the care. Yet I am afraid, Sallie—horribly afraid."

"You must go. I'll wire Keith that you will be there Friday. Then you can go down in the country with him. I guess we can be as smart as that sister of his. I don't blame you for hating her. She's the kind that deserves it."

On Friday Keith was at the train waiting for me.
